

A Gift from One School Principal to Another “Principles for Principals, Leading the Way to School Safety” Is Available FREE to Every Principal in America

The evacuation of the eight public schools within a quarter of a mile of the Twin Towers on September 11, 2001 is one of the greatest American untold success stories about school safety. Despite her personal pain, knowing that her sister was on the 103rd floor of Tower 1 at the World Trade Center; Ada Rosario Dolch had to focus on the safety of her students and staff. Her story, Principles for Principals - Leading the Way to School Safety, is one of leadership, courage and determination inspiring others to return safety back into our school classrooms, crafting sustainable leadership skills to face the difficult times ahead.

“As soon as I read the very first draft of Ada’s story and her lessons learned, I understood how important it would be to encourage her to share her experiences and ideas with other principals, assistant principals and teachers,” said Dee Beaugez, founder of Safe to Learn.

Ada Rosario Dolch reminds us of the importance of leadership, “Every single school staff member has to have the same commitment. When students feel safe and secure they are more open to learning; it’s our job to keep students safe, secure and learning while they are entrusted to our care.”

As a gift from Ada Rosario Dolch, her family, and the entire Safe to Learn Team, Principles for Principals, Leading the Way to School Safety is available FREE to every principal in America. Principals can register to download their FREE copies from the safe to Learn Web Site www.safetolearn.com.

Principals need to select Communities on the navigation bar and then link to Principals Community to setup an account. Once a principal has an account, it is easy to download their Free copy of Principles for Principals, Leading the Way to School Safety.
